

Jin Hua Tang (金华堂)

Jin Hua Tang is a shop in Beijing that offers very special exquisite Tibetan items. You can find thangka, Tibetan embroidery, gilt Buddha figures, silver wares and rings in the shop.

Description of the photo:	Photo:
This is a handmade wood carving with three Buddha of Tibet.	 A photograph showing three golden Buddha figures seated in ornate wooden niches. The figures are gilded and appear to be made of wood. They are arranged side-by-side, each within its own decorative frame. The central figure is slightly larger than the two flanking figures. The niches are carved with intricate patterns and designs.
These Tibetan Gawu boxes are very popular. You can put perfume inside and it can help you ward off evil spirits.	 A photograph showing several Tibetan Gawu boxes. These are small, rectangular containers, often made of wood or metal, and are decorated with intricate patterns and designs. They are arranged in a row, and some are open, revealing their interior compartments. The boxes are tied with straps, and they are placed on a red surface.

Their embroidery items are very delicate. They are handmade by skilled artisans.

These are Buddha figures. The details on them are very exquisite, they are all hard works.

This is a bronze figure with the design of thousands hands Guanyin.

Thangka is used in Tibet to ward off the evil spirits. In Tibetans' words, thangka can bring good luck.

This is a Tibetan prayer wheel decorated with precious kallaite.

